Consolidation meeting set for Tuesday night

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland and Hancock County school boards have set up their first meeting to discuss consolidation.

The two boards will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the library at Bay Senior High.

Acting on a request by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors that the two boards meet to discuss the possibility of consolidation, the Bay-Waveland board agreed to the meeting as long as the public is allowed to attend and hear the discussions.

The Bay-Waveland board has also asked that public hearings be conducted later, after the two boards have had a chance to examine the advantages and disadvantages consolidation could provide for the county.

The supervisors have already declared their support for consolidation in response to constituents, other county agencies and the two school districts, who have urged the board to take a stand regarding the controversy over the Stennis Airport site proposed for a new high school-junior high complex.

The Hancock County District has received mixed reviews on the choice of the site, with one faction arguing against the airport as an unsafe location where construction of a school would hamper future industrial growth.

The other side, which includes Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, is arguing for the site, using its proximity to the existing Pearl River Junior College Vocational Technical Center.

The Bay-Waveland District is also in the process of expansion, and voted on Monday to split the construction planned on the Bay Senior High campus into two projects.

The first part of the project, a 24-classroom addition, will proceed on schedule. However, Board President Betty Diboll has cautioned her board regarding the second phase, a multi-purpose building to be used as an arts center, saying that the possibility of consolidation could have some effect on any further construction and renovation.

She had also asked that, if going so would not delay setting up a meeting, the Bay St. Louis City Council, Waveland Board of Aldermen and the Board of Supervisors be invited to participate in the meeting.

Bay mayor to propose reduction in utility rates

BY D.C. HARVILL
The residents of Bay St. Louis soon may see a reduction in their utility rates, if a recommendation to be made by Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Monday night is accepted by the city council.

Frankiewicz announced Saturday proposed reductions in gas, water and city sewer rates totalling 5.42 percent per month.

The Waveland Region Wastewater Management District fee, along with the garbage collection rate, would remain the same.

For the average residential bill, $79.77, the reduction would mean a savings of $4.38.

Small commercial utility users will also see a savings, totalling 6.03 percent, if the new rates are adopted.

The actual savings will depend on amount of usage, according to Frankiewicz. The mayor said reasons for reducing the rates include:

—The city renegotiated the natural gas cost when it wrote its 1989 budget.

—The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission has locked the price of natural gas at a relatively stable rate. They should remain stable for at least a year unless something major happens to change it, an oil embargo for example.

—The city reduced its debt cost by paying off more than $900,000 in the past year, saving $6,900 per year in debt security cost.

—The city has been able to control operating expenses so that they have increased slower than the rate of inflation.

—Because of permanent repairs done to the sewer system, there have been no major system repair expenses for the past year.

"We are happy to be able to put these rate reductions through. The work we started several years ago to get out from under United's high natural gas rate and reduce the city's debt has worked. The result of this work is savings we can pass on to the customers."

According to Frankiewicz, Bay St. Louis has been able to reduce its rates while most other utilities systems on the

OLG hosting community Thanksgiving service

BY D.C. HARVILL
Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis is hosting this year's community Thanksgiving service to be held Tuesday night.

Sponsored to benefit the needy, food and monetary offerings collected at the service will go to the Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund.

The fund provides a variety of services to those who are destitute and, through the church's department, to transients.

The service is one of two held each year, at Thanksgiving and Easter, hosted by area churches on a rotating basis.

Tuesday's service is entitled, "The Not By Might, Nor By Power, But By My Spirit Thanksgiving Service," and people of all faiths and denominations are invited to participate, according to the Rev. Ken Ramon-Landry.

OLG.

"We are asking everyone to bring canned goods or dry goods such as milk, powdered milk, beans and rice. But most necessary to give anything to participate," the reverend said. "A special love offering will also be taken during the service."

The service will be 7 p.m. Tuesday at the church on Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

According to Beat Three Election Commissioner Betsy Nolan, the best turnout is expected in the North Bay precinct in Beat Three and in South Bay in Beat Four.

The special election for the two supervisors will replace two supervisors who resigned after a 100-person protest convention. The resignations were accepted by the county commission. Other resignations in Beat Four and Beat Three.

Dialysis Unit to open at Hancock Medical Hancock Medical Center and Memorial Hospital at Gulfport will open Hancock County's first renal care unit, according to Phil Wolfe, HMC administrator.

The Hancock Dialysis Unit is scheduled to open November 22 with four dialysis stations. The unit, which was developed to serve patients in Hancock County and surrounding areas, will be staffed with professional nurses and technicians.

"We're really glad to see this center open in Hancock County," Wolfe said. "It's come a long way for our residents to drive

30 or 40 miles for treatment. That has been a needed health care service in our community. Dialysis is the procedure that replaces the kidney's normal function when a person has experienced kidney (or renal) failure. When the kidneys can no longer remove waste, maintain safe levels of blood chemicals in the body or control blood pressure, dialysis is necessary. For patients on dialysis, dialysis is the life line. If you or a loved one is on dialysis, call your physician or Hancock Medical Center at 297-0001.

ON PATROL

ESCAPEE FOUND

A 17-year-old escapee from the Hancock County Jail has been found in Louisiana.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Jason Garcia Jr. of Pearl River, who had been jailed since Nov. 1 on a rape charge, was found at a residence in Arabi, La., Thursday morning. The sheriff said the teenager had apparently been staying with a friend.

He was located by Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Sney and two deputies, the sheriff added.

The sheriff said Garcia had telephoned him at home at about 11 a.m. Tuesday, about 24 hours after the escape.

At that time, he tried to talk the youth into turning himself in, but Garcia chose not to do so.

The sheriff said that the youth, who is 5'11", 160 lbs. and has a scar on his forehead, was found in a ditch near a road. Garcia had been kept downtown after attempting to get into a mattress in his cell about two weeks ago.

He had been out of the downtown cell and into the back area to recover from an attack of claustrophobia and to get a cigarette, Sney explained.

The gun Garcia took was later recovered. He had left them with a 14-year-old friend in Hancock County, who notified the escapee's father, who contacted the sheriff's department.

Peterson said charges that could possibly be added to the rape charge against Garcia due to the escape include felony jail escape and assault on a law enforcement officer.

Pass Library purchases video cassette classics

The Harrison County Library System, Pass Christian, announces the arrival of more than 200 hours of PBS programming, including: 'A Walk Through the 20th Century with Bill Moyers,' 'Nova,' 'I, Claudius,' and Alistair Cooke's 'America,' on VHS videocassettes.

This award-winning collection was purchased through the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation Library Video Classics Project—a nationwide project to make the tapes available to public libraries at a 90 percent discount off the retail price.

John E. Corbally, president of the foundation, states, "Until now, most libraries could usually afford only moderately priced feature films. Our support is making the best programs in the arts, the sciences, and the humanities available to everyone with a library card."

The growth of libraries circulating videocassettes, the number of VCRs in America's homes, and negotiations with distributors for a volume purchase at a discount made this undertaking feasible.

A program guide to describe the offerings will accompany the videos, and all series (except 'The Jewel in the Crown') include complete public performance rights to allow in-library and community group showings.

Other titles included in the series are: 'American Short Story,' 'The Constitution: That Delicate Balance,' 'The Ascent of Man,' 'The Brain,' 'Civilization,' 'Life on Earth,' 'The Heart of the Dragon,' 'Great Performances,' 'Heritage: Civilization and the Jews,' 'The Living Planet,' 'The Story of English,' 'American Playhouse,' 'Planet Earth,' 'The Shakespeare Plays,' 'Vietnam: A Television History,' and 'The Jewel in the Crown.'

Patrol uses new speed

Since Mississippi Highway Patrol has been using the VASCAR (Visual Average Speed Camera) for this Thanksgiving, it is a new, non-radar, detectable speed monitoring computer called VASCAR that has been installed in the patrol cars of state troopers.

"Mississippians should be thankful for this new device as it will make the highways of Mississippi a safer place to travel during the holidays," said Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant chief of the highway patrol.

"Since VASCAR gives off no signal it makes radar detectors useless, thus enabling our officers to catch even the 'professional' speeder."

"Common sense dictates that the only reason to operate a radar detector is to circumvent the speed laws. By equipping our troopers' cars throughout the state with VASCAR we will be able to combat the ever-increasing use of the radar detection units," said Hughes.

In conjunction with the use of VASCAR, the highway patrol will have 54 additional troopers working the roads during the four-day Thanksgiving holiday period.

The supplemental man-hours will be used during the four-day period to enforce the speed laws.

"Although it is our goal to enforce traffic laws, the use of surveillance cameras to spot drunk, drugged or other reckless drivers, speed law violators and stranded motorists," said Hughes.

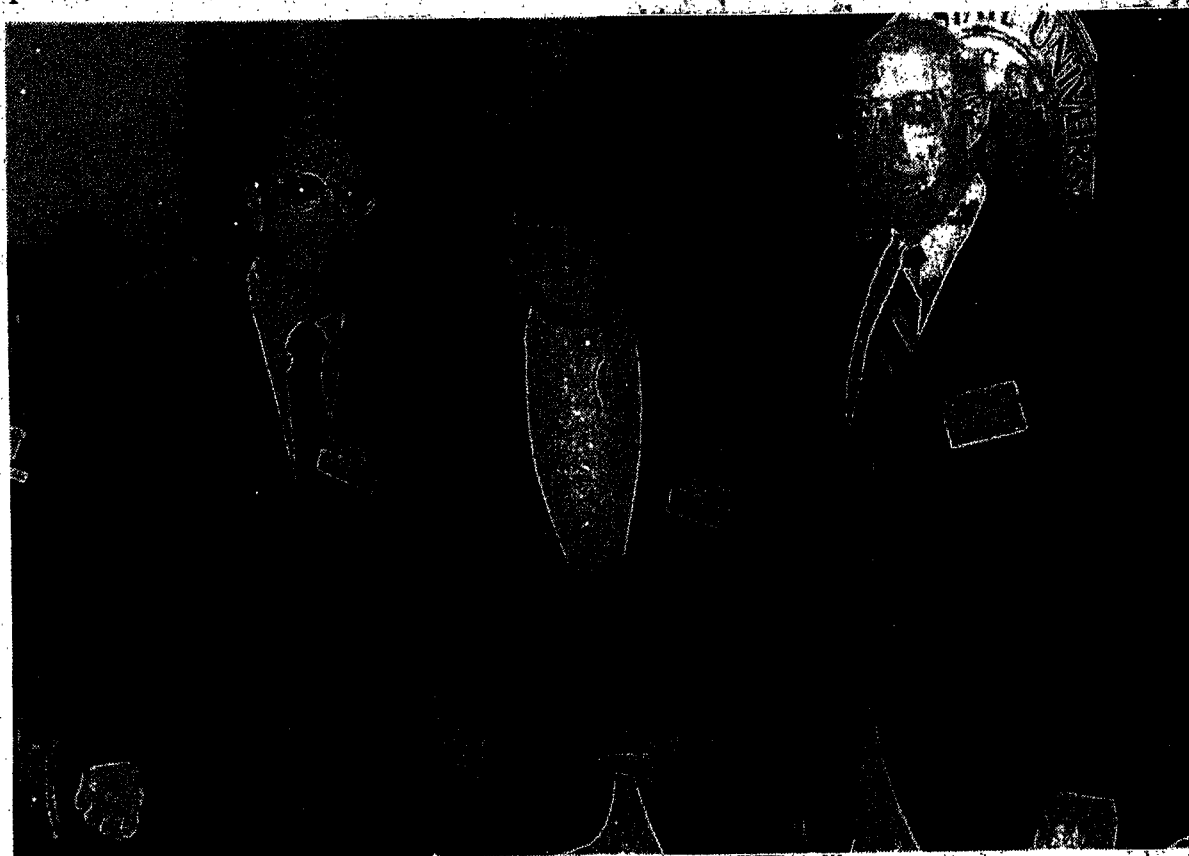

"The use of air surveillance units, VASCAR and extra manpower will substantially aid us in reaching our objective of reducing the needless loss of lives on the highways of Mississippi."

"We are confident that the use of VASCAR will help us catch this type of driver and prevent even more vehicle accidents."

The Mississippi Highway Patrol is a state law enforcement agency. For more information, call the highway patrol at 1-800-252-2741.

The President's Column

and dignity of the Democratic candidate, Governor Dukakis, as he congratulated George Bush in his victory. He ran a tough race, full of energy and purpose, and I salute him for this dedication and courage.

On that night, and in the days that have followed, it and in the weeks before January 20, 1989, we the people can take pride in just how strong our political system really is.

We take it for granted sometimes, but I could not help thinking on election night how inspiring it is that we know we Americans can choose our leader without fear of violence. All Americans, from Hawaii to Maine, know that when the voice of the people is heard, even the mightiest among us must bow before it and accept its wisdom.

President-elect Bush said it well the other day: "We can now speak the most majestic words in democracy has to offer: The people have spoken."

Only twice in our history—during the dark days of our

Civil War—has anyone dared to question the wisdom of the American people as they chose their President, dared to deny the validity of the selection. In other nations, a disgruntled group of defeated politicians might try to stage a coup d'etat, or might even follow our disastrous mistake from the 1860's and go to war—brother against brother—rather than consent to the will of the people.

But here we Americans are, just after one of the most important nights in our history, working or playing or just enjoying our lives. We have made our choice, and life goes on. We do not even need to give it a thought. But when we do, I think it is cause for wonder at our freedom.

We continue to enjoy our freedom because of those brave Americans among us who have legitimately taken up arms in the service of their country—protecting and defending the United States of America. Recently we commemorated America's veterans, those who did their duty so that we could be free and strong, so that tyranny could find no quarter, so that we could live in peace.

I think of the example of Staff Sergeant Carlos Stallard, one of the Gold Star men in World War II. In a 1944 letter to his parents, Carlos wrote, "I believe in making that future a place where little children can go swimming and playing around their homes without being mangled for life from bursting bombs and flaming debris that was once their homes, so that they can have a mother's care instead of being left in some dark corner shivering with cold and dying with hunger and wondering if mother—in a concentration camp—is being cruelly beaten, or if she is dead. That is what we are fighting for and I would gladly give ten lives if I had them."

Like all of us, Carlos Stallard had but one life to give for his country. He died in action in France on July 26, 1944. His heroic example reminds us why sometimes we must take up arms so that we can live free and at peace.

Every veteran in this country deserves our thanks and gratitude, and if there is one change George Bush and I made that touches me most profoundly, it would probably be this: Once again our young men and women are proud to wear the uniform of their country. Flight Lieutenant George Bush sure was.

SMH DIETICIANS LICENSED

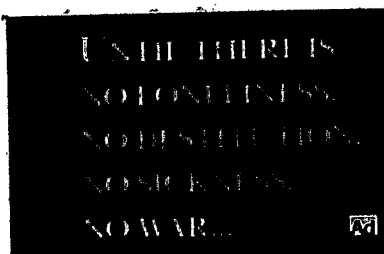

Lobbying efforts by the Louisiana Dietetic Association to assure that the consumer receives reliable nutritional information succeeded recently when the State of Louisiana approved the licensing of dietitians and nutritionists.

Among those earning licensure were Slidell Memorial Hospital and Medical Center dietitians Sue Stoltz, RD, AHCF, director of nutritional services, and Paula Brown MSRD, chief clinical dietitian.

This licensure means more to Stoltz and Brown than the opportunity to increase the number of initials (LD) linked to their names. "It gives credibility to the people who are really qualified to teach nutrition," commented Brown.

Stoltz has been a registered dietitian since 1969 and holds a bachelor of science degree in dietetics from Southeastern Louisiana University. Following her graduation from SLU, Stoltz entered a three-year planned program at Oschner. She has worked with Slidell Memorial Hospital for 11 years, the past nine of which have been in the capacity of director of nutritional services.

Paula Brown, MS, RD, earned her masters degree in nutrition and foods at the University of Wisconsin, Stevens Point, Wisc., and has been with the Slidell Memorial staff for more than three years.

Side Street Crossings

By Dana Bisnette

I got another catalog in the mail. If I get any more, I can stack them up to replace the sofa.

You may know the shop-by-mail routine. Unfortunately, I didn't when I made the mistake that brought me the catalogs, and now that the Christmas shopping season is here I hardly find anything else in my mailbox.

The whole program begins when you buy something—it doesn't seem to matter what, by mail.

The little gift catalog that comes first looks innocent and has all kinds of cute gadgets in it. When I got one addressed to the previous resident that also bore the words "or current resident," I flipped through it out of curiosity.

I'll be darned if I didn't spot a little gizmo that was perfect for what was then my latest hobby—growing houseplants.

When I lived about a hundred miles north of the Gulf Coast, I couldn't get a thing to grow except one little Christmas pine that absolutely adored neglect. The minute I moved to Bay St. Louis, all of my half-dead plants took on new life.

By the time the catalog arrived, a couple of plants had gotten so big the pots had become difficult to move. The little device in the catalog was a pretty brass deal with three wheels on it; set the plant on it and you can roll it anywhere.

The thing cost me about $9.95 and included another catalog and a note saying that I had been given a year's subscription, just for ordering. It's funny, maybe they meant a five-year subscription because it never ran out.

There was a second little note in there. Would I mind filling out a survey about the products used in my home? I could get a free dogfood coupon and a headache powder sample if I did.

Well, I used to take surveys and found the whole idea amusing. I had a pouch in the house and sometimes I get a headache when all the plants produce pollen at once, so I filled it out.

A month later I got my cou-pen and sample and another note that said "Welcome to our family of 57 catalogs." The next day, about a third of the family was in my mailbox.

Now I'm getting catalogs that stock everything from gifts under $10 and pantyhose decorated with holly leaves to gourmet cheeses and Seiko watches.

In addition, I get catalogs for stuff that I, my husband Joe and our pets would never think of buying, like $1,500 diamond watches made from gold Liberty coins, personal spas and designer doggie clothes.

They, whoever "they" are, send Joe catalogs for designer undies he wouldn't be caught dead wearing or for gadgets like electronic diaries that would cost him a month's pay.

I've been getting catalogs for sugary gourmet candies I can't eat, lingerie that would make a Playboy bunny blush and real leather boots and coats that I love but that would cost me six months' pay.

My dog Corky Scott got a catalog offering him the opportunity to buy real leather leashes, $30 chew toys and matching sweatshirts for himself and his master, and asking him to spend money is just so practical because he doesn't get any pay.

Along with the family of catalogs, which multiplies like rabbits and has long since passed the original 57, come all kinds of sweepstakes notices, all of which say I have won if I will buy just one item, like a $95 bikini made of $2 worth of fabric. No thanks. I don't need to be in the drawing for the trip to Eastabutchie.

As Christmas nears, the catalogs take over your mailbox and your house and entice family members to spend, spend, spend. It's easy, just call us toll-free and give us all your credit card numbers. We'll pick the style and color for you.

How do you stop the catalog invasion? I thought I had done it once. I moved. My important mail didn't get forwarded for a month. Half of my catalog subscriptions did. Two days later I relocated.

Once I wrote to the firm that sent me a catalog of air conditioners explaining that I don't wear air conditioning because my roommate Corky is offended by it, he thinks the coat's a relative. The firm catalogs stopped coming.

Unfortunately, a human rather than a computer had read my letter and sent me, along with a note, a catalog of clothing made only of natural plant fibers like cotton and linen. One catalog to replace one catalog? No way.

I'm now on the list for health foods, seeds and 6000 natural items, and I'm too young to be a flower child. I'm not writing any more letters to the catalog people; I don't want to be on any more mailing lists.

I lost a few catalogs through moving but it's just a matter of time before they multiply again, and I wonder what will happen if I ever buy anything else by mail.

Anybody want to get with me and start a paper recycling drive?

Achievement award winners announced by SCORE

It was an extra-special ladies day on Friday, November 18, when five distaff members of the Gulf Coast small business community dominated the 1988 SCORE Achievement Awards presentation.

The winners are Barbara Chapman, Love 'Em & Leave 'Em, Long Beach; Malee and Jesse Hearin, Bon Melange, Pass Christian; Barbara Proux, The Knitty Gritty, Biloxi; and Kathy Sykes and Pat Bannister, Instead of Flowers, Gautier.

This awards program was inaugurated by the Service Corps of Retired Executives in 1987, and is now planned as an annual event. The four company winners for 1988 were selected from a list of thirty nominees who had been counseled by SCORE during the year, on the basis of successful progress since the start-up of their businesses. Several hundred clients are handled annually by SCORE, at no cost. SCORE is an arm of the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Winner Barbara Chapman is a senior citizen, who started her Love 'Em & Leave 'Em business in 1985, provides a pet care service while owners are away from home.

CEHS hosts 'Turkey Shoot'

Coast Episcopal High School's Parent-Teacher Organization will sponsor a 'Turkey Shoot' on Sunday, Nov. 20 from 12:30 p.m. until 5 p.m.

The school is located off Esby Avenue in Pass Christian about two miles north of the beach. Food and drinks will be sold by the senior class. Prizes will be awarded, and the grand prize will be a muzzle loading shotgun.

For information call 452-9442.

She and her staff visit customers' homes twice daily for any length of time specified.

In developing a successful business, Mrs. Chapman utilized SCORE counseling services related to business organization, accounting and promotion. She recently retired, but operations will continue under associates.

IN 1981, Malee and Jesse Hearin moved to Pass Christian, bringing Malee's fledgling, home-based gourmet foods business with them. Since then her single-product venture has expanded to a 45-product line, and is being sold nationwide.

Periodically she called on SCORE, to help her resolve expansion questions. This year the business was sold to Dacus, Inc., Tupelo, with Malee continuing her participation as a member of the executive staff.

Barbara Proux is the proprietress of an unique crafts business in Biloxi, called The Knitty Gritty. She specializes in selling knitting equipment and supplies.

The business was launched in May, 1987, with the help and encouragement of her husband, David, partly as a therapeutic venture following a serious spinal injury. Both the business and her recovery have shown considerable progress. Along the business path, Barbara utilized advice and help from SCORE.

Two enterprising ladies in Gautier, Kathy Sykes and Pat Bannister, started a "bright idea" business in early 1987 called "Instead of Flowers." It features a selection of gift baskets as an alternative to floral pieces. By the end of that year, expansion problems began to surface. SCORE was called in for suggestions and advice. By late 1988, continuing expansion included establishing a wholesaling operation, which has spread the business into four states.

Explore types of retirement housing before choosing one

There are a number of reasons retirees may decide not to live alone. Health may be declining, daily chores may be unmanageable, and retirement may be less enjoyable in a house alone. Some tune out the idea of supportive housing because they have negative feelings about the idea of "nursing homes."

But nursing homes are only one type of retirement housing option. Other choices include board and care homes, congregate housing, and continuing care retirement communities. These alternatives offer a variety of services and provide the retiree with different degrees of daily care. This series will explore the various alternatives in our local area and some of the questions consumers should ask when considering retirement housing.

Continuing care retirement communities in our area may appear from the outside no different than other apartment complexes and condominiums. But the services they provide to the retirees are far beyond the scope of the average apartment complex maintenance. According to Mary Murphy with Life Care Place in Biloxi, the rent at their facility includes services such as laundry, pest control, maid service, transportation, and lunches. In addition, though not included in the monthly rent, nursing care is available as needed at the facility.

Murphy says, "retirees maintain their own independence and have a home of their own." Marketing director Bonnie Bond says continuing care communities provide "the services that retired persons need to have more time to do the things they wish."

If you are considering a continuing care community as a retirement housing option, ask these questions:

What kind of health care is located in the community?

What is the policy for transferring residents from apartments to nursing home facilities? What is the policy for returning?

What services are included in the fees?

What are the entrance requirements? Is there a resident association which meets with the management group?

The continuing care community is one of the more expensive of the various alternatives for retirement living. Ask about fees and services to compare relative values for your money.

Also, check with the Better Business Bureau and the Local Consumer Protection Agency to know the facility's reputation in your area.

ASSISTANCE WITH DAILY CHORES

You may want to investigate local board and care homes if you need help primarily with daily home chores. This retirement housing arrangement allows you to come and go as you please, but provides regular housekeeping services.

The services provided by board and care homes can vary widely. Basic rent generally includes room, board, utilities, housekeeping, laundry, and regular contact with staff members to insure "all is well." This personal attention distinguishes board and care homes from the more familiar boarding homes.

It is important to visit a home before you decide to move in to inspect the facilities and inquire about the services provided. Because the quality of service provided in board and care homes may vary, talk to residents about their experiences.

Marilyn Floyd with Dorchester West personal care home in Long Beach points out that the home maintains a family atmosphere where residents are free to come and go, more so than in a nursing home. Dorchester West provides its residents, who must be ambulatory, with "assistance care." Floyd added that "most of the people here have had surgery or a stroke." The home furnishes meals and housekeeping services but transportation is the responsibility of the family.

To find out if a board and care home would meet your particular needs, ask yourself the following questions:

1. Will living in a board and care home provide you with the independence, privacy, and security that you want?

2. What services does the board and care home provide, in addition to room, meals, and laundry? Are there additional charges for these services? How often is housekeeping and laundry done? Does laundry service mean personal laundry as well as linen service?

3. Is the home accessible to public transportation, your place of worship, and shopping?

4. Will the board and care home be able to meet your special dietary needs? Is it possible for you to prepare meals and/or snacks on your own?

5. Can you use your own furnishings? Is there a living room, TV room, or room for social activities? Are pets permitted? Is there just one telephone or can you have a telephone in your room?

6. Do you have to share a bathroom?

7. Is there a common area or extra bedroom for guests?

8. Are there locks on the individual rooms?

9. Is it possible to avoid climbing stairs, if you have difficulty with stairs?

10. Is the home in compliance with state and local standards for fire safety and health?

11. To what extent does management assume responsibility for security of your personal belongings?

Before entering into a contract, make your own assessment of services offered to that your expectations will be met. Most important, make sure that all the arranged services and fee provisions are specified in the contract you sign with the facility.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Auto accidents are a frequent cause of spinal injuries. Even those collisions in which, apparently, no one is hurt, may have claimed innocent victims whose injuries were not immediately evident. In the absence of blood or broken bones, the victim may assume that he or she has escaped unharmed, when actually strained or damaged ligaments and muscles may allow vertebrae to slip and cause nerve interference that will show up later with pain and loss of function.

Delta Kappa Gamma

The November meeting of the Alpha Upsilon chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma honorary teaching fraternity, was held in the home of Sherrill Haynes of Long Beach. The subject of the morning coffee was the program in effect at the Crisis Center for Battered Women and Abused Children, a subject of vital interest to educators.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Barbara Crop, director of the facility. Mrs. Crop showed an informative video tape, then presented statistics and explained the function and needs of the center. She described the work of the center's trained counselors, essential to break the cycle of domestic violence, shown to be self-perpetuating. She pointed out that new laws in Mississippi have helped law officers in protecting abused individuals. Questions and answers followed the talk.

President Helen Mestayer of Waveland then conducted a short business meeting. Hostess chairman for the event was Margaret Evans of Long Beach.

THANK YOU

To my friends and relatives and voters of District Three who supported me in the Special Election on November 8, 1988.

"Less time for dialysis means more time for us."

Now, quality care for kidney patients is close to home.

Every week, Hancock County kidney patients spent hours on the road, traveling to and from dialysis units in other counties.

They had no other choice. To maintain their health, "renal" patients, those with damaged or non-functional kidneys, must undergo hours of dialysis several times a week. In dialysis, a patient's blood is filtered and cleansed by a dialysis or "kidney" machine.

But now, Hancock County kidney patients will receive the treatment they need, with close-to-home comfort and convenience.

Introducing the Hancock Medical Center Dialysis Unit.

Conveniently located within the hospital, the Hancock Medical Center Dialysis Unit will open November 22. Fully equipped with four dialysis stations, the unit will have a staff of healthcare professionals specially trained in dialysis and in meeting the needs of renal patients.

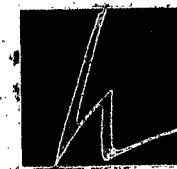

In a committed, hometown environment, Hancock County renal patients now will receive the care they require—without the time and expense of travel. And less time for dialysis means more time to enjoy life.

Quality care, close to home. That's our commitment at Hancock Medical Center.

See your physician, or call Hancock Medical Center for more information.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Bay-Waveland Garden Club

With the theme 'Brilliance of Nature in the Fall,' 36 members and one guest gathered around the pool and patio area of the home of Mrs. Thomas Murphree in Waveland for the annual picnic meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

Mrs. Thomas Murphree, president, called on Mrs. Joseph Crowley, who read a devotion dedicated to 'Thanksgiving,' followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. Raymond Russell gave a horticulture demonstration on making a mini-greenhouse for cuttings and propagating plants. 'Wild Turkeys' was the subject of Mrs. Jack Mohr's most interesting report.

Mrs. George Baud announced the Commercial Beautification Award was given to the Merchants Bank and Trust Company on Hwy. 90.

Mrs. Bert Kleinpeter and Mrs. S. P. Cucullu reported that Garden of the Month awards were presented to Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Lee, 143 St. Charles St., Bay St. Louis; and Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Tusa, 300 Ballview Drive, Waveland.

At the recent Spanish Trail District of Mississippi Garden Clubs meeting held in Biloxi, Bay-Waveland Garden Club received the following awards: Certificate of Achievement—High Honor Roll Club, Certificate of Merit for superior effort for litter control, Certificate of Merit for Youth Nature Camp, Certificate of Merit for Avenue of Magnolias, Certificate of Appreciation for contribution to the Governor's Mansion landscape fund and Certificate of Appreciation for Care-World Gardening.

At the Pass Christian meeting of Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs, we received honorable mention for our scrap book.

We are proud that our year book dedicated to the 50th golden anniversary of the Bay-Waveland Garden club took top honors at the meeting held Nov. 4 by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs.

With no further business to cover, President Tompkins and our hostess, Mrs. Murphree, proclaimed it time for lunch, goodies and fun, to start the picnic part of this gathering.

Assisting Mrs. Murphree were Mrs. H. Weston, Mrs. B. L. Ramsey, Mrs. R. Van Wyckhouse, Mrs. H. Dubuisson, Mrs. N. L. Snider, Mrs. R. Burkhardt, Mrs. W. Crawley and Mrs. E. Brennan.

A game, 'Scrambled Flower Names' was played. Attendance prizes of small potted pansies were awarded to a number of lucky members.

Before closing out a delightful afternoon, the members were treated to a well-planned demonstration of creative designs. Mrs. John Newkirk did a botanical design, Mrs. Lelyn Nybo, a horizontal design, Mrs. John Holmes, a parallel design and Mrs. Thomas Tompkins, a reflective design.

Members were reminded to get started on their Christmas decorated hats which are to be worn to the Dec. 8 meeting and Christmas party at the Garden Center.

Friendship Oak DAR

The Friendship Oak Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, gathered for a luncheon meeting at the Ramada Inn, Long Beach on Saturday, Oct. 12. Hostesses were Mrs. Archie Graham and Mrs. Frances Wilson. The tables were beautifully decorated with a fall harvest theme.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Robert C. Willems, vice-regent, who led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance, the Star Spangled Banner, and the American's Creed. Mrs. William J. Gemmel, treasurer, reported on the financial condition of the chapter, and Mrs. Sidney Ruskin described the activities of 'Rosalie Day' during the Natchez Fall Pilgrimage. Two new members were accepted into the chapter.

Mrs. Tims Alford Quinn presented a video program on 'Ellis Island,' which highlighted the many contributions of the DAR over a period of 32 years to the health and well being of immigrants arriving in the U.S. through the Ellis Island reception center.

Those seeking entry to this country were crudely screened for health and intelligence, and some were held for weeks or months until they were deemed fit for acceptance. To these people the DAR ministered every day to keep their hands and minds busy when there was nothing for them but idleness and hopeless lack of understanding, as most of the newcomers knew no English.

DAR members taught crafts and skills to those interned on Ellis Island, and donated materials with which to work. They gave sewing machines to the women, books, and remembered the children with Christmas presents.

Pictured in the film were many of the early immigrants and the patroque building which served until 1954 as a point of entry for millions of Americans. During the Carter administration the historic building on Ellis Island was designated for restoration. It will, when renovated, provide 100,000 square feet of exhibition space, and one and a half million visitors per year are expected.

In appreciation and recognition of the fact that DAR was one of the few non-governmental organizations active on Ellis Island for more than a quarter of a century, the Ellis Island Museum Restoration Committee has authorized The American Immigrant Wall of Honor. The wall will honor any ancestor whether or not they came through Ellis Island. It is a wonderful way for society members to permanently display the names of their Revolutionary ancestors.

The next meeting of Friendship Oak Chapter will be a 'Colonial Christmas Tea' at 2 p.m. on Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. Willems.

Mrs. Jean Eakin, birds chairman, gave suggestions on bird-related Christmas gifts, for instance, bluebird houses, books on bluebirds, and National Wildlife or National Audubon Society memberships.

Mrs. Joe Finley, parliamentarian, read a change in the by-laws, which was accepted unanimously.

Mrs. William Neff, program chairman, reminded the members of the field trip being planned for April 5, 1989.

Mrs. Betty Claggett, club president, introduced Jon Ritten, board member of the Business and Professional Association of Diamondhead, who presented to the club plans for re-landscaping parts of Diamondhead, beginning with the 'front door area.'

Assisted by his wife Susan, his representation was accompanied by large graphic sketches of the areas included in the planning, showing many of the existing problems and their possible solutions.

Of special note was the the plan for a showcase home soon to be built and furnished in Diamondhead. Guest speaker was Mike Chapman, owner of Christmas World in Gulfport. His talk included correct procedures for trimming a Christmas tree, the danger of connecting a 35-light strand to a strand of more than 35 lights, and many more timely tips.

His assistant, Susan Olier, demonstrated how to correctly make a bow, which she then put on a wreath with small embellishments. Chapman had dozens of lovely ornaments on display also. Mrs. Claggett reminded the group that the Christmas meeting on Dec. 21 would be a covered dish luncheon, with the time of meeting changed to 11 a.m. Members are asked to bring a gift for a shut-in.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Joan at 467-0863 after 6 p.m. Joan Lepine received a charm for losing six weeks in a row and a 10-pound weight loss.

A reminder to all members: Our Brown Bag Auction will take place at our next meeting. Please make an earnest effort to attend. This auction is a lot of fun and one that will all enjoy.

Here is a helpful hint: Never squeeze into clothes that are too small. This only emphasizes the fact that you are too big for them. Instead, wear clothes that skim your figure easily and fit well over the shoulders and bustline.

By the way, too many members are continuously missing the meetings. Some excuses are certainly necessary. However, other excuses are just a way of saying, 'I really don't want to be bothered.' We need members to make an earnest effort to come to the meeting. Thirty minutes is not a lot of time to give when it means achieving a goal which will in the long run benefit you.

Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries

Frances Favre, past association president and Legal Secretary of the Year, was the guest speaker for the November meeting of the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association. Ms. Favre's program consisted of a legal spelling bee.

Highlights of the monthly business meeting included a legal education presentation on misspelled words and the initiation of two new members, freelance court reporter Tracy Garland Bertrand and Sheila Alexander, a legal secretary with the law firm Mize, Blass, Ingram, Matthew, Stroud & Lenoir.

The association will sponsor a free seminar open to the public entitled 'Respond America' on Thursday, Dec. 1 at 7 p.m. at the Harrison County Courthouse, Chancery Courtroom No. 1. 'Respond America' is a Birmingham-based crime-prevention organization teaching practical self-defense.

Las Vegas, Nev. will be the site of the NALS 'CLE & Fun' seminar scheduled Jan. 13-15. The program will focus on technological advances in the law office. Registration deadline is Dec. 1.

The next regular meeting of Harrison-Hancock LSA will be Jan. 12 at the Best Western Inn Beachfront, Gulfport. Staff Sergeant Pete Collins of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol will be the guest speaker.

For information regarding the group's activities or membership, contact vice president Glenda Downs at 452-9408.

Suggestions for toy buying

Prepare yourself before setting out on the first toy-buying adventure of this holiday season. If you aren't ready for it, you may be overwhelmed by the extensive array of toys awaiting you.

There are more than 150,000 individual toy products on the market, and more than 4,000 new items are introduced each year.

While it is important to know what the child wants, it may be even more important to know the child. Consider the child's interests, age and capabilities. Manufacturers often put suggested ages on the package but only as a guide. No two children are alike. Base toy selection on the individual child.

Look for good quality toys. Playthings are the tools of the child's trade and should enhance development. Some toys stimulate thinking; others help muscle or social development. Toys should allow the child to exercise imagination and creativity.

Prepare yourself to spend enough on a toy to get one that will last and withstand play. If a toy requires batteries, invest in several when making the initial purchase.

Check the warranty or guarantee either of the manufacturer or the store where you buy the toy. Quality control is extremely effective in the large, well-known companies, but there are errors. Make sure there is some sort of recourse if the toy is not perfect. Try out every toy immediately when you get home before hiding it away for Christmas.

Make certain every toy is safe before buying it. Try to imagine what the child will or might do with it, and then visualize what could go wrong. If there are any doubts, return it and start over. Your parental intuition will probably be correct.

Above all, select toys that your child will have fun with. And that brings me to my last two suggestions:

* Be aware that children can be overloaded with toys. If you make a mistake in toy quantity, do it by buying too few rather than too many.

* Beware of adult fascination with a toy or the unique packaging of the product. Remember, it's the child who should enjoy it not necessarily the parent.
